This Department now supplies all of the belts, badges and flags used by the Patrol. The Northwestern Mutual Fire Assn. continued to supply us with the bronze merit buttons.

The same splendid cooperation, as given in past years, was continued during 1937 by the Seattle School Board, Supt. of Schools, School Principals, the Automobile Club of Washington, the Northwestern Mutual Fire Association, the City Council, Seattle Street Dept., City Engineer's Dept., the Mayor and Chief of Police, and the various divisions and captains of the Seattle Police Department, also the newspapers of the City. Too much credit cannot be given to the Seattle Council of the P. T. A. for their fine work in supplying rain equipment and giving meals to Patrol members.

STATEMENT "Q" Sheet #2.

Meetings were held in each school for the Patrol members and they were instructed in their duties. One half day was spent with each group. A total of 2415 pupils attended these meetings.

A total of 1248 Merit badges, buttons and certificates of all classes were presented during the year.

63 School assemblies were held. They were attended by approximately 15,189 children, at which time lectures on safety and juvenile crime were given, and Patrol members took their pledge.

A total of 154 lectures, including radio talks, were given before school assemblies and various other organizations, on safety and juvenile delinquency. A total of 32,534 persons attended these lectures.

In conjunction with the Boy Scouts of America, 20 Scouts were examined for their Safety merit badges. Members of 10 Patrols have completed the course in First Aid given by instructors furnished by the Boy Scouts of America, 290 Members of the Patrol were brought to Police Headquarters for a trip through the building.

On February 20th, through the courtesy of the Paramount Theatre and Mayor John F. Dore, a special show was given for all Patrol members.

On June 12th, the Ninth Annual Patrol Outing was held at Playland Amusement Park, North of the City, where rides on all amusement devices were purchased, also transportation to and from the Park, by this department. Total attendance 1,534.

13 Requests for information on the Seattle Junior Safety Patrol were received and complied with, and four officers from other cities called in person.

Once again we pay a tribute to the members of the Patrol for the splendid service they are rendering to the City in general and to their schoolmates. This Division does not average two complaints a year on the conduct of the officers. Special credit is due to Patrol members for the record they have made in accident and crime prevention.

CHAPTER I

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The following is a summary of the history of the United States from 1776 to 1865.

The history of the United States is a story of growth and change. It begins with the first settlers in 1607, who came to the New World in search of a better life. Over the years, the colonies grew in number and in size, and they began to assert their independence from England. In 1776, the United States was born, and it has since grown into a great nation.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of growth and change. It begins with the first settlers in 1607, who came to the New World in search of a better life. Over the years, the colonies grew in number and in size, and they began to assert their independence from England. In 1776, the United States was born, and it has since grown into a great nation.

The early years of the United States were marked by a period of rapid growth and expansion. The country's population increased from about 2 million in 1776 to over 10 million by 1800. The nation's territory expanded from the Atlantic coast to the Rocky Mountains, and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border. This growth was driven by a combination of factors, including the discovery of gold in California, the opening of new lands for settlement, and the desire for more space and resources.

As the United States grew, it also became more diverse. Immigrants from many different countries and regions of the world came to the United States in search of a better life. These immigrants brought with them their own customs, languages, and traditions, which they blended with those of the native-born Americans. This process of cultural fusion helped to create a new American identity, one that was unique and distinct from any other nation in the world.

By the mid-19th century, the United States had become a major power in the world. Its economy was strong, its military was powerful, and its influence was growing. However, the nation was also facing a number of challenges, including the issue of slavery. The debate over whether slavery should be allowed to expand into new territories had become a major point of contention, and it ultimately led to the Civil War in 1861.

The Civil War was a turning point in the history of the United States. It was a conflict that pitted the Union against the Confederacy, and it resulted in the preservation of the Union and the abolition of slavery. The war also led to the passage of the Reconstruction Amendments, which guaranteed the rights of all citizens, regardless of race or ethnicity. These amendments were a landmark achievement in the history of the United States, and they helped to lay the foundation for a more just and equitable society.

After the Civil War, the United States continued to grow and expand. Its territory expanded to the Pacific Ocean, and its population continued to increase. The nation's economy grew even stronger, and its military became even more powerful. By the end of the 19th century, the United States had become a world superpower, and its influence was felt in every corner of the globe.

The 20th century was a period of great change and challenge for the United States. It was a time of rapid technological advancement, of social and political upheaval, and of global conflict. The United States played a leading role in the world during this time, and it helped to shape the course of human history. Today, the United States remains a great nation, one that is proud of its history and committed to its values.
